

Clothing: Rules for a Simple Stress-Free Seasonal Swap Out

When the seasons change it comes time to swap out some clothing you won't need for a few months. Here's how to do it stress-free!

Rule 1 Opt for small containers instead of large storage tubs. These are easier to carry and to store.

Rule 2 Group like clothing together, group by size or style.

Instead of tossing everything in one big bin, group similar styles in smaller boxes. This allows you to see what you have and to pull just what you need as you need it next season.

This top wrinkles way too easily and takes an extra-long time to iron. I don't love it enough to expend the extra effort. Maybe someone else will, so it is a donate!

Read one more idea at www.JamieNovak.com

DO NOT

- Store away anything that is stained, ripped or faded- either fix it or let it go.

Used to be black

Needs a repair

Paint won't wash out

DO NOT

- Keep anything that you continually pass over in favor of wearing something else